Complaint

The complainant, a member of the public, lodged a complaint against the IP on the basis that he was subscribed to the IP's service and charged without having taken steps to subscribe to the service himself. His complaint was as follows:

Complainant writes: Cell number is 073 XXX YYYY.\r\nBlinck via Sybase365 has been deducting funds from this account on the pretences that we have subscribed to a service of Blinck. Despite many requests for proof of this and the terms and conditions, the only email i received was a text message stating activation time (27 May 2009) This is completely unauthorised deduction especially since the service was not subscribed to and never used. I have requested a refund and informed them that I am reporting Blinck to WASPA. \r\nThe web is full of complaints from these rogues because it is not good for the image of WASPA. \r\n

Service provider's response

The IP responded to the complaint with a series of logs which are annexed to this report, marked "A". The IP advised WASPA as follows:

This service was initiated on the 27th of May 2009. Attached is the report proving the start of this service and the messages sent to this telephone number. All subscribers to our services must positively confirm their subscription requests through by filling in the personal pin-code given in the confirmation SMS (the "double-opt-in" processes).

This is to ensure that the person initiating a service is the owner of the mobile number or has the bill payer's permission. Blinck will not bill a user without this double confirmation from the handset. As was the case with the subscription for

It is unfortunate that Mr. Viret has had a negative experience with our services and for this reason also Blinck Mobile has as a show of good customer relations offered Mr. Viret a refund. This refund was processed in our system on the 19th of January; please allow a maximum of 15 days to clear the transfer.

Sections of the Code considered

This complaint was formally escalated on 21 January 2010 after first being lodged on 4 January 2010. The applicable version of the Code is therefore version 8.0.

Code version 8.0

2.23: A “subscription service” is any service for which a customer is billed on a repeated, regular basis without necessarily confirming each individual transaction.

3.1.1: Members will at all times conduct themselves in a professional manner in their dealings with the public, customers, other wireless application service providers and WASPA.

3.1.2: Members are committed to lawful conduct at all times.

4.1.1. Members must have honest and fair dealings with their customers. In particular, pricing information for services must be clearly and accurately conveyed to customers and potential customers.

4.1.2. Members must not knowingly disseminate information that is false or deceptive, or that is likely to mislead by inaccuracy, ambiguity, exaggeration or omission.

6.2.11. The member providing the service must keep a record of the confirmation provided by the customer (for 6.2.9 (a)) or the notification sent to the customer (for 6.2.9 (b)).

Code version 8.0

11.1.2. Any request from a customer to join a subscription service must be an independent transaction, with the specific intention of subscribing to a service. A request from a subscriber to join a subscription service may not be a request for a specific content item and may not be an entry into a competition or quiz.

11.1.4. Where possible, billing for a subscription service must indicate that the service purchased is a subscription service.

11.1.8. Once a customer has subscribed to a subscription service, a notification message must immediately be sent to the customer. This welcome message must be a clear notification of the following information, and should not be mistaken for an advert or marketing message:

- (a) The name of the subscription service;
- (b) The cost of the subscription service and the frequency of the charges;
- (c) Clear and concise instructions for unsubscribing from the service;
- (d) The service provider's telephone number.

11.1.10. Where a subscription service is initiated by a user replying to a message from a service provider where that message contains instructions for activating a service and/or where that message contains an activation code that when inputted by the user activates a subscription service, then that message, along with the subscription initiation instructions and/or activation code, must also include the subscription service information in the following format, flow and wording:

[service activation instructions and/or activation code]. U'll b subscribed to [XYZ service] from [name of service provider] @ [cost of service and frequency of billing].

11.2.5. The cost of service and frequency of billing must use the format "RX/day", "RX/week" or "RX/ month" (or RX.XX if the price includes cents). No abbreviations of "day", "week" or "month" may be used.

11.5.1. Instructions on terminating a subscription service must be clear, easy to understand, and readily available.

11.5.2. Customers must be able to unsubscribe from any subscription service via SMS using no more than two words, one of which must be 'STOP'. If a reply could pertain to multiple services, either all services should be terminated, or the recipient should be given a choice of service to terminate.

Decision

The logs to seem to indicate that a code (in this case "14638") was submitted to the IP twice from a device which appeared to be at two distinct IP addresses just under a minute across. The initial prompt for the first code submission does not appear on the logs although the second is recorded at 21:49:26 on 27 May 2009.

The complainant apparently received a welcome message from the IP and monthly reminders of his subscription to the service on the 27th of the month for seven months before filing a complaint with WASPA on 4 January 2010 and being unsubscribed from the service on 7 January 2010. Given the complainant's insistence that he did not subscribe to the service, it is puzzling that he allowed it to continue for seven months without taking steps to query or terminate the service.

The initial welcome and subsequent reminder messages the IP sent to the complainant (according to the logs) appear to be compliant with the Code's requirements for the most part. The messages use the abbreviation "txt" instead of the requisite "sms" and should be adjusted to cater for local terminology but I don't see this as overly confusing. The messages also contain a toll free number the complainant could have called to query or cancel the service and there is no indication that he took advantage of this option.

As I mentioned at the beginning of this report, the complainant did allege that he was involuntarily subscribed to the service. The IP countered that a person could not be subscribed without sending a confirmation code twice (the so-called "double opt-in").

This is not the first time a person has contended that he or she has been involuntarily subscribed to a service and won't be the last. At the same time there is no real evidence before me that the complainant was, in fact, subscribed involuntarily. That said, the possibility for an error may well exist and should be investigated.

The IP has offered and, I believe, processed a partial refund. Given the complainant's failure to take steps to query or terminate the service for seven months and the absence of any corroborating evidence suggesting the complainant was subscribed involuntarily to the service, I believe the refund is appropriate and sufficient.

Sanctions

The IP is to ensure that the refund offered to the complainant is paid to the complainant immediately, if it has not been done so already.

Given the possibility of an error in the IP's subscription process, the IP is required to send a reminder message to all subscribers in the format prescribed by section 11.5 of the current version of the Code, namely version 9.0. The IP is further required to examine its subscription mechanism and ensure that there is no reasonable likelihood of a person being subscribed involuntarily and without expressly opting in to the services it offers.

The IP shall report back to WASPA and confirm, in writing, that it has taken the steps set out above within fourteen days of being notified of this sanction.
